Expectations

Participation in the QRSTF is a real honour and a privilege. The committee welcomes you and hopes that your experience is one that inspires, excites and motivates you in the pursuit of scientific knowledge.

Plan to arrive at the main entrance of the Centennial SS by 8:15. Line up inside the main doors. You will be escorted one at a time to your registration station (See website www.qrstf.ca for details.) Parents/guardians will leave their children at the entrance to registration area in the cafeteria. They will be well supervised! Parents are welcome after 11:30.

As a representative of your school, and of the community as a whole, the following should be taken into consideration.

- ✓ Students are expected to be at their projects for the entire judging period - if judges need to return to your project for additional information or if they have more questions for you, you need to be present. There will be additional judging in the afternoon (1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.) for special awards and "Best in Grade"... if you think you may be judged for these awards, you should return to your project following the lunch break.
- ✓ The fair is open to the Public and our generous sponsors during the afternoon (11:30- 2:30). Students are expected to stay with their projects until 2:30 pm. Students should never leave their valuables unattended.
- ✓ Students are asked to be respectful of the environment/space - remember that Loyalist College is graciously hosting this event, and as such, we must be mindful of the grounds and staff.
- ✓ Students are asked to dress appropriately - "Dress for Success".
- ✓ When a judge or a passerby (adult or peer) shows interest in your project, you should stand up and offer them an explanation of your project. This is why you are here - tell them about all of the hard work that you have done!
- ✓ Answer all questions to the best of your ability and explain yourself as clearly as possible... refer to your project board whenever necessary. When the opportunity arises, use the Good Communicator Form to interview fellow students. Enter this in a draw for movie tickets!
- ✓ The Display Hall this year will be closed to the general public from 9:00-11:30.

NOTE: Tables and chairs will be provided.
